Censoring of Programs to Be Done by Stations Responsible to Public

T BENEFIT PUBLIC ed to Limit Stations a Purpose Is to Start Controversies

DAVID LAWRENCE
Right 1927 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The future influence of radio in the making of public opinion and the government's function in regulating broadcasting stations presents many complicated problems, and the speaker of the Committee on H. A. Bellows of the Federal Radio Commission, and M. H. A. Bellows, president of the National League of Women Voters, conference here may be taken as an index of what lies ahead from the viewpoint of both the government and the broadcaster.

Mr. Bellows announced that his speech had been fully approved in advance by his fellow members on the radio commission. In a nutshell, he insists that the censoring of programs will have to be done by the broadcasting stations which in turn will be directly responsible to the listening public. The matter of issuing licenses has been decided and will continue to be divided on the basis of public service and public convenience. The number of stations is limited, hence a station will be in a sense on its good behavior, for congress may at any time prescribe rules definitely eliminating stations that are misusing their privileges.

RELIGIOUS STATIONS

It is suggested for instance, that stations whose sole purpose is to provide religious broadcasts, or to give offense to a large number of listeners, should be subject to a low wave length and ultimately be eliminated from the airwaves.

So long as the stations maintain the good will of their listeners, they will be able to justify themselves and keep their licenses—this is in short the doctrine on which the Federal Radio Commission has been operating. It must be the duty of the stations, Mr. Bellows said, to decline to accept the applications of all the radio stations as too many have applied but there is, on the other hand, uncertainty as to how long certain stations will consider it worth while to maintain their religious broadcasts.

One of the interesting points raised in this connection was the opportunity of the minority to get a hearing. Will

RED CROSS IS $100 FROM $1,000 QUOTA

Need for Help Is Growing More Urgent Every Day, Chapter Says

Outagamie-co chapter of the American Red Cross association has started on the last $100 of the $1,000 quota to aid flood sufferers in the Mississippi river valley. Monday morning $910 was reported for the fund by P. M. Conkey, treasurer of the chapter. The chapter has completed their quota and have started new funds to send more money to the flood districts. Neenah had raised $1,000 last week, and Fond du Lac raised $1,200 in the first three days of the campaign.

The flood continues unabated and the need for aid grows more urgent every day. Chapter officers should be made payable to P. M. Conkey, treasurer of the Outagamie-co chapter of the American Red Cross.

Milwaukee—(AP)—Taking advantage of the presence in Milwaukee of Baron Ago Von Maltzan on his tour of the midwest, Marquette university will confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws on the ambassador from Germany to the United States Tuesday afternoon. Announcement of the honor to be bestowed upon the diplomat was made Monday by the Rev. Albert C. Fox, president of Marquette.

"The university will grant the ambassador the honorary degree of laws on the basis of his long distinguished professional and diplomatic career and as an expression of international good will," President Fox explained.

The baron, accompanied by the baroness, arrived here Sunday night from Chicago to be the guest of Milwaukee for two days. He went to Madison Monday for luncheon with President Glenn Frank and Professor Hohlfeld of the University of Wisconsin. He will return here Monday evening.

SUPERIOR STUDENTS RETURN TO CLASSES AFTER LONG STRIKE

Leaders Expect Board to Re-instate Ousted Teacher at Meeting Next Monday

Superior—(AP)—The assembly room of Central high school crowded at 8:30 Monday morning, with 1,000 whispering, excited students called back to their classes by strike leaders, after being absent since April 1.

C. G. Wade, principal, opened the meeting and introduced Miss Alice Baker, teacher, who welcomed the students back. Mr. Wade then said the students would resume their work as usual Monday and by Tuesday a special program would be mapped out so that all could make up their work.

The month-old strike, begun because Miss Lulu J. Dickinson, teacher, was dismissed, was ended Saturday afternoon when students and citizens backed statements saying they believed all the students should return. At Monday morning's meeting none of the strike leaders took the platform and there was not a single note of applause or demonstration at any remarks. The students say their return is conditional on certain concessions they are seeking from the board of education.

WATCH BOARD MEETING

While the return of the students may have seemed a victory for the board of education, students are looking forward to the meeting of the board next Monday, May 8, when teachers will be hired for the next term. It is said Miss Dickinson will be reinstated then, although board members refuse to discuss this possibility. If she is replaced, it will not be until next fall, in the opinion of the student strikers.

Paul R. Spencer, superintendent, was back at his desk Monday morning having visited at St. Cloud, Minn., over the weekend. He would say nothing for publication and when asked if he would approve of a move on the board's part to reinstate Miss Dickinson, accused his questioner of just "trying to make news."

Should the board refuse at its meeting next Monday to take some action regarding Miss Dickinson there is a likelihood that the strike will be on once more. Feeling between the various factions is extremely bitter.

Million Dollar Plot Is Checked By Chicago Cops

Chicago—(AP)—A million dollar kidnapping plot, conceived by a convicted murderer, planned for execution by one of Chicago's most feared criminal bands, and directed at a 19-year-old heir to a great fortune, has been checked by the police.

Henry J. (Midget) Fernandez, now serving a prison term for robbery, while awaiting a new trial for murder for which he was sentenced to be hanged, was the man, the police say, who plotted the kidnapping. The intended victim, now as closely guarded as a president or a king, was John Shedd Schweppce, son of Charles H. Schweppce, a broker and grandson of the late John G. Shedd, who was one of the city's wealthiest men.

Police refrained from revealing details of the plot, nor would they name all the conspirators. The million dollars which police believe was to have been demanded for the boy's release, was to have gone in part into a defense fund for Fernandez, who once tried to blast his way out of the Cook-co jail with dynamite.

Mrs. Jessie Mulhall Saunders, more recently known as "Mrs. Remick," according to information in the possession of Chief of Detectives William O. Connor, was one of the women active in the plot. Mr. Schweppce identified a photograph of Mrs. Saunders as that of a woman he had seen providing about the grounds of his Lake Forest estate.

"Seven well-known gunmen" were involved in the plot, the police said, all members of the band which recently over two other grandchildren of the late Mr. Shedd—Mary Reed, 12, and John Shedd Reed, 12, who live near the Schweppce estate. Mr. Schweppce has been given a police guard.

20 SOUTHERN NATIONS JOIN IN WELCOME

Dargue Leads Squadron Back to Bolling Field After Successful Flight

Washington—(AP)—The long journey of the army aviators who took the word of American friendship and good will to the nations south of the Rio Grande was to be fittingly celebrated with an official homecoming at Bolling field here late Monday.

A program calling for a personal welcome at the field by President Coolidge and other high government officials included a multitude of citizens joining with representatives of the twenty or more Central and South American countries visited, in expressing gratitude to the fliers for a perilous but successful voyage, and in sympathy with its time of tragedy.

Long days of flying under tropical suns, over snow-capped mountains, unpeopled plains and jungle-like forests now are history to the fliers. They have seen the blue green waters of the Pacific, the rugged peaks of the Andes and have skirted the dangers of the Amazon. As their reward, they have the realization of having carried for the United States its message proclaiming good will, desire for continued peace and relations of equality for and with the sister republics of the south.

DARGUE LEADS FLIERS

In the lead of the four Leaning amphibian planes as they flew from Langley field, Va., to Washington on the last leg of their journey was Major Herbert A. Dargue, who commanded the expedition. The rest of the personnel included Captains Arthur B. McDaniel, and Ira C. Baker and Lieutenants Emile Whitehead, Charles Robinson, Muir S. Furchick, Bernard S. Thompson and Leonard D. Weddington. They were accompanied by a special military escort of ships carrying Assistant Secretary of War Davidson and Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service.

The plane was purchased from the United States for $145,722. The loss of two of the good will fliers in a wreck at Buenos Aires brought a tinge of sorrow to the celebration.

VETERAN BURGLAR IS ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

Chicago—(AP)—John Burton, 62, "a veteran burglar," according to police description, was arrested Sunday night as he leaped from a second story window of an Oak Park home. He threw away $5,000 worth of jewelry which the police said he had taken from the house. Burton of Decatur, Ill., said he had spent time in prisons of Michigan and other states.

BLAME BOOTLEGGERS FOR MURDER OF PATROLMAN

Chicago—(AP)—A man believed to be a Chicago bootlegger driving a cargo of liquor from Windsor, Ont., shot and killed a state highway policeman, who sought to search an auto near Sturgis, Mich., Sunday. Sam Matas, the policeman, was shot with his own pistol while the runner took from him. The killer's automobile bore an Illinois license, witnesses said, and after the shooting the driver started Chicagoward at high speed.

Fascisti Guards Bring New Plane To DePinedo

New York—(AP)—Guarded by a half dozen armed Fascisti on its voyage across the Atlantic, the unassumingly bulk of the airplane Santa Maria II was here Monday for Commander Francis DePinedo to complete his flight over four continents.

The plane was sent from Rome by Premier Mussolini and is a sister ship to the original Santa Maria which was destroyed by an air attack on Roosevelt Lake, Ariz. DePinedo plans to make a test flight Thursday and then is expected to decide on plans for continuation to the Azores and to Brazil.

The plane was on the Italian liner Dullio, was guarded day and night by three shifts of Fascisti guards. Armed with pistols and stiletos, they watched the craft on the ship's deck, permitting no passengers within 75 feet.

As the time approaches for the expected take off of the Wright-Bellanca monoplane Columbia on its Paris flight the ranks of prospective non-stop trans-Atlantic fliers have gained a new recruit in Lieut. Walter Hinton, pilot of the navy seaplane N. C. 4 on the pioneer American flight to Europe.

HARD TO TELL GIRLS AND BOYS APART ON ENGLISH SEASIDES

London—(AP)—Miss 1927 of England, has taken to trousers for sports and seaside wear. Boys of eleven and twelve have brushed back and sweeter sports jackets and semi-oxford bags. It is difficult to distinguish the girls from the boys.

On the tennis courts the girls wear flannels, and the orthodox male shirts, so that mixed doubles seemed to be played by four boys until the feminine instinct makes the girls pull out a powder puff and dab away after a hard game.

Madison—(AP)—Baron Ago Von Maltzan, German ambassador to the United States, Monday visited state officials and Madison. He was welcomed by Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, in the executive office, shortly after his arrival Monday morning.

He was then taken to the university, where President Glenn Frank, Dr. A. R. Hohlfeld, head of the German department, and students of German welcomed him.

PRAY FOR BOY FIGHTING FOR LIFE IN VIRGINIA

Rosnoke, Va.—(AP)—Prayers were spoken Monday for Walter L. Boothe, 18, in his fight against death. The telephone at Jefferson hospital where companions lifted and lowered his arms to force air into his lungs rang almost constantly, bringing messages of cheer and assurances of prayers in his behalf. Early Monday physicians stated his pulse was fairly satisfactory and his condition improved. The boy's condition resulted from fracture and dislocation of a vertebrae received in an automobile accident last May. He was partially paralyzed when surgeons began an operation April 21.

DRY OFFICERS FIND TWO LARGE STILLS

Haul Includes 500 and 100 Gallon Stills and Quantities of Liquor

Madison—(AP)—In two of the largest hauls in recent months state prohibition officers last weekend arrested two Florence-co men and destroyed a large amount of liquor and liquor-making equipment. Prohibition Commissioner Roland W. Dixon announced Monday.

Both hauls were in Florence township, in the county of the same name. Hearing that there was "some big business" in that district, the commission sent three men to Florence.

They found a 10-horsepower boiler, a 500-gallon still, eight 300-gallon mash vats, and 500 gallons of moonshine. Gerald Porter, alleged operator of the plant, is in Florence-co jail awaiting hearing. His plant was destroyed by dynamite used by the state officers.

The other haul yielded a 100-gallon still, 1,000 gallons of mash, and 115 gallons of moonshine. Joseph Matilina is in jail with Porter in connection with this haul.

RUSH WORK TO REACH 77 MEN HELD IN MINE

Sixteen Killed in Explosion—Rescuers Divided into 6-hour Shifts

Fairmount, W. Va.—(AP)—Pushing through gas-choked and debris-strewn passages, helmeted rescue workers Monday hoped to learn the fate of 77 miners entombed following an explosion in the Everette mine of the new England Fuel and Transportation Co.

It was believed by rescue workers only 700 more feet had to be penetrated before reaching the area where the men were thought to have been working at the time of the blast, in which 16 men are known to have been killed and seven injured. Nine escaped unhurt.

MRS. SNYDER FIRM IN STATEMENT THAT LOVER KILLED MATE

Reads Confession in Court, Omitting All Responsibility for Murder

Queens-Co Courthouse, N. Y.—(AP)—Cross-examination by counsel for co-defendant failed Monday to change Mrs. Ruth Snyder's direct testimony, laying sole blame for the murder of her husband on Henry Judd Gray.

Mrs. Snyder, as they handed her the confession she made after her arrest, admitted authenticity of her signature on it.

"What parts, if any, of this confession are true?"

"My name and address."

"What else?"

"She then began reading the confession aloud, omitting all such parts as she thought were incorrect. The result was an almost meaningless chain of unrelated words and phrases. The parts about her meeting with Gray and her relations with him she read in full.

CONVICT PAIR GIVEN 45 YEAR SENTENCES

Escaped Green Bay Reformatory Men Are Sentenced as Robbers in Missouri

Green Bay—(AP)—O. D. Arteson and Walter Schell, electrician trustees, who escaped from the Wisconsin State reformatory here while working on the power lines outside of the prison walls about a month ago, have been sentenced to terms of 45 years each in the Missouri State penitentiary, according to word received by Superintendent Earl H. Eklund of the local institution, Sunday.

After their escape the two compelled a Green Bay man to drive them to Greenville, Wis., where it is believed they caught a train and "rode the blinds" to Chicago, and thence making their way to Kansas City, Mo., where they were arrested while operating a stolen automobile and were identified in connection with several holdups.

They pleaded guilty to the charges under the names of Ed Cannon and Harry Fisher but were identified as Wisconsin fugitives through their fingerprints.

MRS. BORCHERT WILL MANAGE BREWER TEAM

Milwaukee—(AP)—For the second time in 15 years, a woman has assumed the reins of the Milwaukee American Association baseball team. Announcement of her intention to continue in charge of the club "for the present," was made Monday by Mrs. Ruby Borchert, widow of Otto Borchert, president and owner of the Brewers, who died suddenly Wednesday. Henry J. Kilbuck, Milwaukee attorney known throughout baseball-dom as one of the organizers of the American league, and a close personal friend of Mr. Borchert, will act as counsel to Mrs. Borchert and represent her in baseball matters.

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Agnes Havenor was left in charge of the club with the death of her husband, Charles S. Havenor. She continued at the helm until 1919.

TEN MILLION NEEDED FOR RELIEF ACTIVITY IN FLOOD TERRITORY

Washington—(AP)—On recommendation of Herbert Hoover, the American Red Cross Monday asked the people of the United States to contribute a minimum of $10,000,000 to relieve the suffering in the Mississippi flood area.

The Red Cross previously had asked for $3,000,000 and this figure was exceeded slightly Monday. Secretary Hoover deemed the sum insufficient, and the new appeal was decided upon after he had conferred with Red Cross officials and President Coolidge Monday, upon his return from the flood district.

Mr. Hoover conferred at the Red Cross headquarters with George E. Scott and Cornelius N. Bliss of New York, and Miss Mabel T. Boardman, members of the organization. It was decided that every Red Cross chapter would be asked to double the fund it had been asked to raise.

W. J. Barker, an employee, was injured by a horse and received judgment against Pierce under the compensation act. Pierce contended that the place was his summer home, that he was not engaged in business, that the state law did not apply to Barker, and that it was unreasonable and arbitrary because while exempting farmers, it did include those making summer residences in the state.

PREDICT HIGHER LEVEL Record Stages Are Forecast at New Orleans Between May 5 and 18

Pettyville, Ark.—(AP)—Another break in the main drainage levee on the west side of the big lake occurred Monday. The water started slowly sweeping over an area, seven miles wide, territory heretofore untouched by the flood. The dike gave way under pressure from back waters of the flood which poured down two weeks ago from the New Madrid break on the Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—With the flood crest of the Mississippi moving past Vicksburg Monday, armies of men were fighting desperately to raise and strengthen the levees along the wide front from the mouth of the Red river to New Orleans where record stages are forecast between May 5 and 18.

Stations, towns and water flowing through four crevasses opened Sunday by the river south of Vidalia, opposite Natchez, were completing the inundation of Concordia parish in central Louisiana with the prospect that it would submerge parts of four adjoining parishes.

The flood along the Yazoo river in Mississippi also was spreading, through a somewhat improved situation was reported in southeastern Arkansas, with the Arkansas river slowly falling, and the flood waters through the three breaks moving rapidly over into northern Louisiana. There was no change in the situation at New Orleans.

NIGHT SESSION IN PROSPECT FOR STATE SENATORS

Upper House Faces Huge Pile of Work left Over from Last Week

Madison. (P)—The state senate, continually held up last week by Senator Dargatz's tax bill and the Goodland vocational school measure, will start Tuesday's session with an accumulation of work which will probably call for one or more night sessions. Mr. Tew's assemblyman from Milwaukee, who like his home town colleague believes in government ownership of large utilities, will have a chance to see whether the senate will favorably reflect his viewpoint when his resolution memorializing congress for government ownership of railroads comes up.

The senate last week defeated Assemblyman Coleman's resolution memorializing congress for government ownership of coal mines. Both resolutions have been adopted by the lower house. The senate committee on state and local government has recommended the measure be killed. Mr. Tew has another resolution to be brought up at the same time, making application to congress to call a convention for proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States to repeal the Eighteenth amendment.

SHIFTLESS TOURISTS START FOREST FIRES

Nearly Three Hundred Acres of Indian Reservation Burned Over

Carelessness of fishermen and campers is blamed for two serious fires in the Menominee Indian reservation this and last week. Fishermen returning from trout streams report two fires, one ravaging a tract of about 40 acres and the other burning over two or three hundred acres. Fishermen were pressed into service to put out the fires.

Investigation showed that the larger fire was started from a neglected camp fire and the other was caused by a match thrown in the dry grass by a careless fisherman.

SEVEN SPEEDERS IN MOTORCOP'S NET

Police Pick Up Drivers for Using Streets as Race-tracks

Bright, sunny weather over the weekend brought out hundreds of motorists, some were so exhilarated they stepped on the gas without regard for consequences. As a result, seven speeders were arrested by Motorcops Officer Gus Hershorn. All those arrested in municipal court Monday morning before Judge Theodore Berg were fined $10 and costs of $3.20. Several were to be arraigned Monday afternoon.

CITY CREWS HAUL LOADS OF RUBBISH TO DUMPING GROUNDS

Street Commissioner Says People Are Offering Splendid Cooperation

Good progress was made Monday morning by city street crews collecting rubbish, according to R. F. Hackworth, street commissioner. Almost the entire department will be engaged in hauling rubbish to dumping grounds this whole week which has been officially designated by Mayor A. C. Rule as "Clean Up Week."

Only three people set out rubbish after the trucks had passed their homes, Mr. Hackworth said. The property owners seemed to be making a special effort to facilitate the work.

Hauling started in the business district between Lawrence-st and the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks. Four trucks worked in the district east of Appleton-st. When this district has been completed the trucks and men will shift their operations to the same district lines west of Appleton-st.

The rubbish is being placed in a dump on Elm-st and in another on E. Washington-st between Railroad and Acherne-sts. No rubbish will be dumped in the ravine on W. College-ave, Mr. Hackworth said.

The business district will be completely covered by Tuesday night and collecting will be started early Wednesday morning in the residential districts north and south of the business section. People living in the residential districts have been advised to have their rubbish collected and placed in boxes on the street curbs by Wednesday morning at the latest.

Eggleston post Grand Army of the Republic, will be guests of the Young Men's club of the American Legion at the regular meeting Monday evening at Elk hall. There also will be a discussion of relief work for sufferers of the Mississippi river flood. The entertainment program for the meeting will be furnished by the 120th Field Artillery band.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: WITH A NO TRUMP CONTRACT AND A SMALL CARD LED, HOLDING TEN-X OR TEN-XX OR KING-QUEEN-X IN CLOSED HAND, PLAY THE TEN FROM DUMMY.

The reason in this case for disregarding the general "Second-Hand-Low" rule is that, when the Closed Hand has Ace-King, the lead may have been from Queen-Jack and, if so, the play of the Ten will ensure three tricks. When the Closed Hand has King-Queen, the lead may have been from Ace-Jack, and if so, the play of the Ten will ensure two tricks because it will permit the Declarer to keep both King and Queen which when held together, must take one trick. When King-Queen-X is led up to, it may take only one trick if one of the high cards be forced on the first round and the next lead of the suit be made by the declarer on the right, through the then singly guarded honor.

Of course, when Dummy has Ten-X, the play is almost obvious as the Ten, left solo in the Dummy, would not be of any service. If, however, Dummy have Ten-X the Ten play may result unfortunately. When Closed Hand has King-Queen-X, it is possible (unless the Eight is the card led) that the Jack is in the Third hand, and, with the Ten covered by the Jack, the Declarer might be held to one trick in the suit, the Ten play costing a trick and when Closed Hand has Ace-King-X, the play of the Ten from Ten-X at times results badly because the honor may be played by Third hand, Closed Hand win it, and subsequently the original leader, with the other honor and the Nine, be able to continue the suit advantageously when he could not do so if the Ten remained in Dummy. The cases in which the play results disadvantageously do not, however, equal in number those in which it produces an extra trick. The size of the small card led is a material point to be considered: the larger that card is, the greater the chance that the Ten play will succeed.

Suppose the following cards be held by Dummy and Closed Hand:

Dummy—
♠ K-4-3-2
♥ 8-4-2
♦ 10-7-5
♣ 10-7-5
Closed Hand—
♠ A-8-7-6
♥ A-9-6
♦ A-Q-2
♣ K-Q-4

that South is the Declarer with a No Trump contract, and that the first lead is the Eight of Clubs. What should Dummy play and why? Write your answer in pencil on the slip that follows, get your bridge fans to fill slips, keep them and compare them with my answer tomorrow; it will make an interesting contest.

Bridge Answer Slip for May 2nd
On trick 1, Dummy should play the ... because ...

Phantom "Cat Bandit" Is Latest Criminal Novelty

BY ROY J. GIBBONS

Chicago—A mysterious "cat bandit" is the latest novelty in Chicago's great assortment of criminal characters.

Every Chicago policeman is watching for him, with 60 picked men patrolling the "cat's" favorite haunts day and night.

Orders are to bring the "cat" in dead or alive and to shoot first and ask questions afterward.

The "cat" first came to notice about five months ago.

He gained his name by the furtive manner of his operations. He is fleeting as a shadow. None of his victims have ever been able to get a good look at him.

And with his bravado he combines a gallantry that is colorful.

SPECIALTY IS ROBBERING WOMEN
The "cat's" specialty is women. He never attacks men. He never operates twice in the same neighborhood during the same month.

And to date he is wanted for 72 jobs.

Gliding from a dark hallway or alley he seizes his victim, makes her accompany him by taking his arm to avert suspicion and then during what appears an innocent stroll to onlookers, he robs her.

He is never abusive. He talks in a quiet and seemingly cultured voice. He apparently has no fear for he has operated in crowded shopping districts and under the full glare of street and store lights.

SPARED WEDDING RINGS
He has spared wedding rings and keepsakes that were precious for. And twice he has tied his victims' unfasting.

POLICE SEEK TWO MEN AND 1 WOMAN AS STORE ROBBERS

Chief George T. Prim Hopes to Determine Owner of Old Ford Car

Two young men and a woman committed the $4,000 robbery at Gloucesters Gage Co. department store here Sunday, police believe. They drove away in an old Ford touring car carrying a Michigan license. George T. Prim, chief of police, has wired to the secretary of state of Michigan to determine if possible to whom the license was issued. The party sought by the police stopped in a village on Highway 15 between Appleton and Milwaukee about 9:30 on the morning of the robbery, had breakfast at a hotel, and continued toward Milwaukee. Police did not say in which village the suspected robbers were seen, but intimated that it was about half way between here and Milwaukee.

HAD "SMALL CHANGE"

The suspicions of the hotel proprietor were aroused when one of the men paid the bill in quarters. He seemed particularly anxious to get rid of a lot of small change he had, asking the hotel man if he would like to change paper money for cash. The latter had sufficient change on hand, however, and did not accept the offer of his customer.

All three members of the party were dirty and unkempt, it was reported to police. They appeared tired and sleepy, indicating they probably had been up most of the night. They also seemed to be in an unusual hurry to be on their way.

Although their automobile, which was parked about 200 feet from the hotel, was not noticed by anyone in the restaurant, several men loitering about a soft drink parlor observed the car, police learned.

WOMAN TELLS POLICE

Police learned of the presence of the party in the hotel there from an Appleton woman who stopped there a few days later. She heard the hotel man talking about his Sunday guests. Having learned about the robbery here she told police what she had heard when she returned to this city.

The exact number of the license was not obtained by the police, but three or four licenses differing in only one or two numbers were reported, and Chief Prim believes that the city may be sufficient to give them a definite line to work on.

This is the most encouraging information the authorities have received since the robbery was discovered. The money bags containing the cash stolen from the local department store were found near a rural schoolhouse about 12 miles south of Racine last week.

Police now are attempting to learn whether the young men and their companion were seen here previous to the robbery. It is believed they probably were in the city for several days, as they evidently knew the exact hour at which the night watchman went home in the morning. The suspects must have been in Appleton for a day or so at least to acquire such minute information, it is pointed out.

TEACHERS TALK OVER CONTRACT TEACHING

The Contract Method of Teaching will be the topic presented at the professional teachers meeting at Appleton high school at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Miss Irma Henry is chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting.

COOLIDGE WELCOMES GOOD WILL FLIERS of mud prevented their hop-off from San Antonio on the first leg of the journey Dec. 20.

The planes were to have started from Duncan Field near here. They were brought to the starting line and christened but were unable to lift their heavy loads from the soft field. They were dragged across the road to Kelly Field that night and the following morning took to the air from the long concrete runway there. The flight to Brownsville was made without mishap and Dec. 22 the squadron flew to Tampico, Mexico.

At Tampico the St. Louis burned out an engine. The San Francisco flew on to Vera Cruz Dec. 23, leaving the other planes. This was the first of many separations on the flight. The fliers went by rail to Mexico City where they were fêted by President Calles and spent Christmas. On Dec. 30 the planes were joined again at Vera Cruz and flew to Puerto Mexico the following day to celebrate the New Year.

PLANE IS DROPPED

They hoped to Sallinas Cruz Jan. 1 and on the third day they dropped their planes between the four volcanoes that guard Guatemala City and delivered a message from President Coolidge to President Chacon. The first serious crack-up occurred here when the New York damaged its landing gear in attempting to get away. An engine almost struck them. In San Antonio at the start of the flight, was shipped to Panama to replace the New York is necessary and supplies were shipped from New York to repair the plane if possible. The St. Louis accompanied the New York, the two reaching Panama Jan. 14.

TWO AIRMEN KILLED

The greatest disaster of the trip, the crash in which Captain Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieutenant John W. Benton were killed, occurred Feb. 26 as the four planes passed over Palomar flying field near Buenos Aires, preparatory to landing. Major Herbert A. Dargue, the flight commander, gave the signal to break formation and land at about 1,500 feet above the field. The Detroit was flying slightly above the New York and the hull of the upper plane obscured the latter. As the Detroit veered to the left and started to descend the hull struck the New York and the two planes locked, bursting into flames as they fell.

Major Dargue and Lieutenant Ennis C. Whitehead leaped and descended safely in their parachutes although the planes almost struck them as they hurtled to the ground. Captain Woolsey and Lieutenant Benton, however, were unable to escape from their plane.

President de Alvaroz of Argentina, and the whole populace paid the unfortunate fliers every courtesy and the bodies of Captain Woolsey and Lieutenant Benton lay in state for several days before they were started on the long journey home.

Both planes were ruined in the crash and as the San Antonio had not caught up with the main body of the flight only two shops remained when the expedition got under way again Mar. 2 and flew to Asuncion Paraguay. Here the expedition waited a day on the San Antonio and then flew on to Montevideo, Uruguay, where the San Antonio joined the leaders. In the meantime Lieutenants Weddington and Whitehead returned to France Field, Panama, and obtained the extra plane that had been shipped from San Antonio when the New York broke down at Guatemala City.

Mike Steinauer was in Chicago over the weekend on business. He returned to Appleton Monday morning.

STEAL 25 CENTS FROM POTTS-WOOD COMPANY

An attempt to rob the Potts Wood and Co. creamery office, 125 E. Pacific-st., Sunday night proved unsuccessful, 25 cents being the sum total missed by officials Monday morning. A thorough survey of the office was conducted, but nothing else was discovered missing. The money, all in pennies, was all that was in the cash register. No attempt was made to open the safe.

The thieves, whom police believe were children, entered the building through a window in the rear. They took out the putty on the window frame and removed the glass. The window pane was taken to police headquarters by Sgt. M. M. McGinnis where Sgt. James Moore, finger print expert, examined the glass for finger prints.

NEW LONDON SUES COUNTY FOR $1,043

City Seeks to Recover Money Spent on Ed. Wolfrath for Poor Aid

Alleging that the county should have paid for poor aid extended to Ed Wolfrath about a year ago, the city of New London has brought suit against Outagamie-co for $1,043.59. Papers notifying the district attorney that action has been started have been served on John E. Hantschel, county clerk, by Sheriff Otto H. Zuehlke, and Stanley A. Staidl, district attorney, is preparing the answer.

The city contends that Wolfrath never was a legal resident of New London. It is understood that the county will attempt to prove that he was, in that he had rented quarters there and left clothing in them during the winter that he was absent from the city.

Wolfrath was shot by a police officer on Oct. 23, 1925, while attempting to escape from the New London city jail. He was injured in the leg. The hospital expenses, physician's bill, and keep for more than a year were paid by the city, and the bill was presented to the county board at the November 1926 session. Holding that Wolfrath was a legal resident of New London, the county board disallowed the claim.

The city council on April 6 authorized William J. Butler, city attorney, to institute action to recover the money and the papers were served on the county clerk a few days ago.

BETTER PUT ON LICENSE PLATES TO ESCAPE FINES

Absent minded motorists who forget to buy their 1927 automobile licenses before May 1 were reminded of their laxity Sunday. Police officers were instructed to stop all automobiles which did not have new license plates, and many drivers were called upon to do more or less explaining.

Some had satisfactory alibis and were permitted to go their way. Others were given tickets and will be haled into court this week. If found guilty, they will pay the usual fine of $10 and costs.

Lawrence Zorbel, Appleton, is the first driver fined since the period of immunity expired. He was arraigned in court Monday morning and fined $10 and costs of $5.20.

Police have warrants for the arrest of a number of motorists. Receipts showing that the automobile owner has applied for his license is satisfactory to the police and will save the owner from a fine. If no application has been made, however, it will take a mighty good excuse to escape being fined.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Menting of Wisconsin Rapids were Appleton visitors Sunday.

WANT LOCAL GOLF CLUB TO SPONSOR INTERSTATE MEET

Northeastern Golf Association Reelects Officers at Meeting Here

Butte des Morts Country club was invited to hold the annual interstate golf match, between the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association and the Northern Michigan association on its course at a meeting of the Northeastern Wisconsin organization Saturday noon at the Conway hotel. The meet is annual affair in which the ten best golfers of the Badger association are pitted against the ten best of the Michigan association. If the local club accepts the invitation the meet probably will be held about June 20, according to P. C. Wesco, chairman of the sports committee, who represented his club at the meeting.

All officers of the club were reelected. They are Harry Burrows, Sheboygan, president; W. F. Kerns, Green Bay, vice president; M. A. Carroll, Oshkosh, secretary-treasurer. The Rhinelander Golf club was voted into the association and plans for the annual association tourney were made. The tourney will be held at Oshkosh on July 28, 29 and 30.

A change was made to reduce the tourney from four to three days, officials announced. Formerly the team match play was held the day before the qualifying round of the 3-day tourney. Now the team match will be held jointly with the qualifying round. The same scores by which the golfers qualify for the meet will be used for the team match and the low gross for one club will win.

The association decided to hold a home telegraphic team match among its members. Each club will choose five men as its representatives and the list will be sent in to M. A. Carroll, the secretary, a week before the meet. Each team will play on its home course and will telegraph its total medal score to the secretary. Mr. Carroll will decide the winner on low medal score and a cup will be given to the winning club.

Cities represented at the meeting were Green Bay, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Wisconsin Rapids, Wausau, Fond du Lac and Appleton. Riverview club of Appleton was not represented. Other clubs sent letters authorizing the secretary to vote for them.

SET NEW BASIS FOR RADIO LICENSING

ham B. Wilson, former secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Wilson, was in the audience and asked how organizations which could not pay for space on the air, would be able to use the radio.

SERVICE TO PUBLIC

Mr. Aylesworth, speaking for the National Broadcasting company, explained that his company expected to render a service to the public and to open its facilities to debate of the pro and con of public questions, establishing ultimately a sort of "university of the air." He said that for the present the cost of broadcasting was being borne in two ways—by sponsored programs paid for by those who wished institutional advantage and by the three constituent corporations which own the National Broadcasting company, namely the General Electric, the Westinghouse and the Radio corporation, all of whom are interested in the increased sale of radio sets, and the continuous purchase of tubes. He declared that the National Broadcasting company's deficit of more than a million dollars would be met by its constituent companies as a commercial expense justified by the advantages to be derived in promoting the sale of radios and the preservation of interest by the listener who already has bought his radio.

A certain part of the National Broadcasting company's program will be to offer without charge to organizations making up interesting programs for the education of the public. Mr. Aylesworth offered for instance, to the National League of Women Voters the use of broadcasting facilities. He pointed out that the National Broadcasting company owned very few stations itself but depended on the many other stations to accept or reject the pro-

Two Floors of Good Things to Wear

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

By Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BILLY WELLS, head of the glove department of the big Curtis Store, wins a prize for her answers to a questionnaire. The awards are announced at the thirty-first anniversary celebration, by T. Q. CURTIS, millionaire owner, who prepared the questionnaire himself.

NYDA LOMAX, WINNIE SHELTON and twenty-two other girls and women also win prizes. In a conference room where Old T. Q. talks privately with the winners, Billy notices that among the lucky ones elected by the old man as winners of this contest are the very prettiest girls in the store. She is instantly suspicious, and her suspicions are heightened when, during the conference, Mr. Curtis requests the winners to participate in a second contest. Each girl is to write him a letter, telling what she would do if she inherited one hundred thousand dollars.

When Billy goes home after the celebration, she finds CLAY CURTIS, son of the store owner, sleeping before the fire. Clay has disheveled himself and is living in the Wells family in a poorer section of the town, working in a factory and writing music at night. Billy's ambition to be a great violinist is a bone between her and Clay. When Billy tells him about the second contest, he opposes it as vehemently as he did the first. He is suspicious of his father's motives and begs Billy to drop the whole business.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII
Sunday afternoon, while rubbing her freshly shampooed hair with a Turkish towel, Billy studied the two paragraphs of instructions which T. Q. had framed to govern this second amazing contest of his. Her mother was rocking placidly and sewing.

"Just listen to this, mother, and you'll see how crazy it is," Billy commanded. "Suppose, for the sake of this essay, that you have just inherited—not earned—a hundred thousand dollars. Write in not more than 500 words, just what you would do with that sum. Write honestly and tell how you would handle this sum of money to secure the most pleasure for yourself or your family or humanity in general."

Billy reflected, frowning at the sheet of paper. "If you ask me, I think it's a lot of applesauce, and I'd be willing to bet right now that I could name at least eight of the prize winners. And every last one of them would be a pretty girl!"

Billy rubbed furiously with the Turkish towel for a minute, then read aloud the remaining paragraph: "The contest is open only to the twenty-five prize-winners in the questionnaire contest, and closes on February 5. T. Q. CURTIS will be sole judge of the merits of the essays submitted. Ten prizes, of worth-while value, will be awarded upon announcement of the prize-winners, not later than February 10, 1927. Signed—Thomas Quinn Curtis." She flicked the sheet of paper irritably with thumb and forefinger, then burst out at her mother. "Did you ever hear of anything so—so mysterious! Doesn't tell what the prizes will be, keeps the judging solely in his own hands—blessed if I know whether to try for the fool thing or not."

"Don't forget you won twenty-three dollars in one of his fool contests," her mother reminded her. "You go ahead and try, and don't get fresh with him, either. It might tickle him once, but not twice. Now, you get your thinking cap on and write him a real sensible letter. Goodness knows, I don't know what you can say! I'd die of heart failure if somebody left me a hundred thousand dollars."

"I don't believe I'll go over to Winnie's, after all," Billy flung the towel aside and sprang to her feet. "She just wants me to help her write her essay, or to worm out of me what I'm going to say. Is Clay coming back to supper, or didn't he say?"

"Oh, he'll be back, don't worry. That boy does more walking than any person I ever saw. Why don't you go walking with him?"

"Because he hasn't asked me," Billy retorted. "Now, mother, for heaven's sake, don't you go to throwing him at my head or me at his. I get plenty of that at the store. It's enough to make me hate him."

"But you don't," her mother said softly, glancing up at her daughter with twinkling blue eyes.

Billy did not answer, but marched out of the living room into her own room across the hall.

"Better light a fire in there if you're going to shut yourself up to write," her mother called after her. Billy came shivering out of her room. "We can't afford to have three fires burning at the same time, and I haven't the heart to let Clay's room get cold. He'll probably come back from his walk with his head full of a new song that he'll be just aching to write down. Clay's a genius—a real genius. It tears my heart out to think of his breaking his back in a factory, getting his piano fingers all rough and broken—oh, I ought to make him go back to his father, so that he could spend all of his time at his music."

"I expect it's good for him to get acquainted with real folks and real life and hard work," her mother said wisely. "He can go back any time—"

"No, he can't!" Billy interrupted angrily. "There's something divine and foolish and strong in him that would make him kill himself at work he hates rather than acknowledge that he's not capable of learning a living out of this commercial old town with his bare hands. We mustn't let him go back, mother. Something happened to make him hate himself because he isn't a money-making go-getter—his voice was bitter with contempt of the breed—a woman, I think, and he'll never believe in himself until he proves to himself that he can make money. Oh, well, I've got to get busy. Funny, isn't it?—I've got to go to write an essay on what I would do with a hundred thousand dollars, when we can't even afford the coal to heat my room for me to work in!" She bent swiftly over her mother and rubbed her fresh, firm young cheek carressingly against her mother's. "I'm not really bitter, but sometimes it does seem as if my dream of being a great violinist is so absurd."

She straightened and stared about the living room, her tear-bright blue eyes glancing about the walls, on which hung four or five cheaply framed little water colors, signed "Emily Stark"—her mother's maiden name.

"I only had a talent for dreaming," her mother's eyes followed her glance, and she sighed for the dead dreams of the long dead Emily Stark. "I never thought I'd be a great painter, and I guess I was really pretty glad to get married and saddle you with the duty of making my dream, as well as your own, come true. But you've got genius too, Billy. You can't go back on it. You'll get your chance. I've had the queerest feeling lately that you're just on the brink of it. Old Mrs. Ashbell cut the cards for me the other day, and she said my wish was coming true very soon. And the only wish I ever have is that you'll have your chance at a real theater, with all the time you want to practice—"

"You're a funny dumpling and I adore you!" Billy laughed.

She had intended to write a flippant, impudent letter to T. Q. CURTIS, guarding her dreams from his sardonic, quizzical eyes, but she found when she sat with her pen poised above a fresh sheet of paper, that there was no impudence left in her. Her mother's belief in her genius

MILWAUKEE ALUMNI PLAN DINNER DANCE

The Milwaukee Lawrence College Alumni association has made plans for a dinner dance to be given Saturday evening, May 22, at the Milwaukee Athletic club. It will take the place of the annual business meeting, usually held in the spring. Dr. Henry M. Wiseton, president of the college, will be master of ceremonies. The committee in charge of the event includes Lawrence Singer, Chris Isley and Charles Hooley.

The Lawrence faculty has been invited to the affair and Dan Hardt, publicity director and alumni secretary, will be present.

Her funny, intimate, whimsical little confession that she remembered her half-formed suspicions and the wagger she had made to her mother—she would be willing to bet right now that I could name at least eight of the prize winners."

As her exultation died down and reality pressed in upon her—the kitchen was getting bleakly cold—she did remember. All cynicism which life had forced upon her came rushing back. She seized her pen again and wrote rapidly—eight names.

"Here, mother, keep this list until the prizes are announced, and see if I can't say, 'I told you so,' she said in a hard little voice as she tucked the folded bit of paper into her mother's apron pocket.

On the day of the contest awards, Billy sells gloves to a disturbing stranger with hypnotic eyes. Read the next chapter.

Other members of the committee in charge are Prof. A. A. Trever, Prof. W. L. Crow and B. H. Krueger, secretary. Judges will be selected by the committee.

The contests are open to the male students in the high schools of the state. The total number of contestants in either contest is limited to 30. Any high school in the state may submit two contestants, one for each contest. The same speaker may not compete in both events.

The high school team composed of orator and extempore speaker receiving the highest ranking shall be

One Can Never Tell By Appearances

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

In spite of that dramatic climax, Churchill was not through with Mrs. Allbright.

"Now, Mrs. Allbright, will you tell the jury whether you later changed in your attitude toward your father's fiancée?"

"I—no—I—" Mrs. Allbright stammered.

"Did you not, on Friday, October 22, pay a friendly call upon Miss Cherry Lane, accepting her as your future stepmother?" Churchill asked with a broad smile.

"I called on her—yes," Mrs. Allbright flashed angrily. One trembling hand was raised to touch a wisp of lace handkerchief to her trembling mouth.

"The visit was a pleasant one, a friendly one?" Churchill persisted.

"Well—yes, I had decided to make the best of a bad bargain," Mrs. Allbright admitted haughtily.

"Why, Mrs. Allbright?" Churchill asked suddenly.

"I did not want to become estranged from the father, whom I loved, after his marriage."

When the witness was returned to Banning, the district attorney asked only one question: "You are rich in your own right, are you not, Mrs. Allbright?"

"For answer, given haughtily, was: 'Mr. Allbright is considered a rich man and I inherited a comfortable fortune from my mother.'"

Mrs. Allbright left the courtroom hastily, joined at the door by her seventeen-year-old debutante daughter, Muriel, also fashionably dressed in mourning for the dead man, her grandfather.

"Call Flo Ripley!" Banning directed loudly.

"Where do you live, Miss Ripley?" Banning asked, after the preliminary questions as to name and age.

The pert, hard-faced girl, over-rouged and over-dressed in a tight, sleeveless sheath of red satin, her kinky-waved black hair showing beneath a metal cloth, fantastic turban.

WE SHOULD GET AWAY FROM ROUTINE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

WARK SULLIVAN in his book, "Our Times" makes his philosophical remark: "Restlessness turned in upon itself ferments into something a little bitter."

His reference was made to an era in the country's history when the free lands of the west were close, and that Mecca for the dissatisfied, the unsuccessful and the oppressed was a thing of the past.

What is true of a country is true of people. Once there was a woman who always kept three pickets off the backyard fence. Her husband was a grumbler and life was hard. She worked all day cooking and cleaning and washing and scrubbing, then when night came and she was about dead, to have her grumbling stony husband come in and find fault was more than she could bear.

Back of the kitchen was her garden and around the garden was a fence. When things came to the stage that she wanted to throw the teakettle, she opened the kitchen door and slipped through the gap in the fence. The gate "might have stuck" and when she wanted to get away, she had to get away "quick."

What she did thereafter is not important. The thing is that it was better to get away and to know that she could get away at the psychological moment than to stay and brood and grow bitter.

It is largely our own fault when we paint ourselves into a corner. Every one has a right to an outlet, a safety-valve. Who has a better right than Mother, for instance, when spring fever is flourishing, to prop up a note on the sugar bowl saying that there is plenty of food in the refrigerator for lunch, and she has gone out to see the blossoms at Aunt Clara's?

Any woman who has enough strength of character to step out and take on a little spiritual fuel for another run is not likely to grow bitter when responsibility gets too heavy.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

'T WAS not so long until the sun came peeking through. "Ah, now it's fun to sail around up in the air," said Scouty Tinymite. "Do not like the rain, and yet it seems that none of us get wet, so after all why should we kick, 'cause everything's all right?"

For many hours they sailed along, and now and then burst into song. Then Coppy said, "I wonder when and where we're going to land. I'm getting hungry and can't be some food would be real good to me."

And then he shaded both his eyes, and all directions scanned.

"There's not a thing in sight. I fear. We're all alone away up here."

Then Clowdy broke right in and said "That's where you're surely wrong. I see some trees about a mile ahead. Well be there after while. Let's all just hope the kindly wind will start to blow real strong."

Almost before his chat was through, the hope began to come right true.

The parachute puffed far and wide and sailed just like a streak. "Wee Coppy hollowed, lowly," "Say," The wind then took his breath away. In fact they sailed so speedily that more of them could speak.

They hurried in the basket tight. "If everything was out of sight. Then, almost quickly as it came, the wind began to go. Wee Scouty stood to look about and then the others heard him shout, "Oh, look! I see some wondrous trees, and they are just below."

"If we should land right in these trees, we'd make our landing fine, with ease. I fear that it would hurt us if we landed on the ground." The basket then came to a stop. It caught upon a big tree top. The Tinkles crawled to branches and they soon were safe and sound.

(The Tinymites get a thrill in the next story.)

WOMAN MAY CULTIVATE HER BODY TO BE GRACEFUL AND EXPRESSIVE

With this most interesting and enlightening summary, Haskell Coffin, one of America's foremost masters of the palette, concludes his six-volume series on feminine beauty.

BY HASKELL COFFIN
GIVEN perfect features and charming expression, what more does a woman need to be beautiful?

She needs grace and an expressive body.

The beautiful woman seems all one piece of loveliness: head on slender neck and held well hands and feet shapely and her every move co-ordinated and graceful. She may be large or small, but must be perfectly proportioned.

Grace is somewhat a matter of bone formation. Some women's spines are supple and their limbs and arms naturally expressive of grace. Others can learn by hard work to co-ordinate their movements. For carriage is a tremendous aid to beauty.

FRANCES STARR

Recently an article was written about the walks of different actresses. Frances Starr, my wife, was described as the actress with the perfect walk of loveliness and grace. Mention was made that every character she portrayed was made real by the characteristic walk she gave them.

The perfectly poised, graceful woman has a quality about her that suggests potentially lovely motion even when she is in repose. Illustrative of this are Pavlova and Irene Castle. Grace is the outward expression of an inner, indefinable, subtle thing that directs the body in a way that is pleasing to behold. The body will do nothing unless led to. It may be a subconscious direction. But if a woman has no real sense of grace in her nature she cannot be graceful.

PASTEL COLORS WILL BE WORN BY JUNE BRIDES

BY HEDDA HOYT

Weddings are becoming very colorful affairs these days. Instead of bride and bridesmaid's being dressed in conventional white, entire color schemes of one pastel shade, or multi-colored rainbow effects are chosen by the bride, her maid of honor and her bridesmaids.

At one of the loveliest of recent weddings the bride wore a gown made of flesh colored satin of period type with square neck line, semi-fitted bodice, long, slender sleeves and full skirt studded in quilted flower design at the hem. She carried a cluster bouquet of pink and orchid-hued orchids mixed with sprays of lilacs-of-valley. Although the bridesmaid's gowns were made exactly alike, each was of a different pastel shade. Grayish blue, orchid, pale yellow, amber and periwinkle were the colors chosen for the maids' bouffant frocks which had slender bodices and skirts composed of layer upon layer of tulle rungs. Wide draped in contrasting pastel shades were worn about the waist lines and the same ribbon appeared as trimming on the blond-hued horseshair hats. The maids of honor chose a long-sleeved afternoon gown of gold lace matched by gold satin slippers piped in gold leather.

ORCHID COMBINATION
One very lovely wedding was completely carried out in orchid tones. The bride wearing pale orchid georgette, the bridesmaids wearing more violet tones of the same material and the maids of honor wearing purple velvet.

VELVET MATCH DRESSES
Even the wedding veil may lack the puritanical all-white effect. Some of the younger set are wearing tulle veils in a lighter but harmonizing shade of the wedding gown. Pink is the favored color of the modern bride for both gown and veil, although many girls still cling to the conventional white for sentimental reasons. However, pastel colors are in quite as good form today as white for the bride as well as for the attendants.

set these days. Flexible action is ever a joy to the beholder. For a woman's carriage often gives her beauty.

Beauty, then, is a composite of many things. Carriage is all important and necessary when one aspires to recognition for pithyitude. But a body and face that express charming character have a universal appeal. Personal character perhaps stands higher than features. It is hard to say where character begins and physical beauty ends. They are twin rulers in the realms of beauty.

The debutante slouch is no longer attractive, as women are becoming much more athletic. So girls, hold your head erect and chest up and you will be more charming and healthy. Finally, beauty of today and character, or temperament, as you will, are subtly co-mingled, and while you study physical beauty don't forget to make yourself agreeable and gracious to all. This will add much to your beauty.

What woman or man would not be supremely gratified and proud to have it pointed out as theirs? And the cost of construction is proportionately low—from $8000 to $9000, varying with local prices of building materials and labor.

TEAM BLOWS UP IN SIXTH TO GIVE 1ST
GAME TO APPLETONKawmen Get Off to Good Start but Let in Nine Runs in Sixth Inning

Kaukauna—A blowup in the sixth inning let nine enemy runs over the home plate and ruined Kaukauna's debut in the Fox River Valley Baseball league here Sunday. Appleton won the game 12 to 5. A perfect opening day was spoiled by that one bad inning. About five hundred fans attended the game. John Lawe, Kaukauna's oldest pioneers pitched the first ball.

The tail end of the Kaukauna lineup showed a decided lack of hitting strength but Manager Alex Gehr expected to strengthen this with the addition of several experienced ball players in time for the next game in two weeks. Shining through the defeat is the stellar hitting of E. Sager who got two hits and scored two runs in three times at bat, and L. Mereness who scored two more runs and was credited with one hit. One of Sager's raps was a two bagger. Toward the last inning the Gehrmen were finding themselves and several balls went sailing quite close to the fence. A game or two more and Kaukauna should be scrapping with the best. John Schueler played a good game at first, making several pretty throws.

Kaukauna turned in two double plays.

In the five innings that Kraft worked he issued two walks and struck out one man while the enemy got four hits off him. Gehr worked four innings and hit seven times. Appleton pegger, Reltke, walked two, struck out nine and walked one. The struck out twelve and allowed five hits.

CHAIRMAN OF RADIO BOARD ADMITS HE'S SPORTS ENTHUSIAST

Best in Radio Dates Back to 1898 When Marconi Displayed His Sets

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—One thing's sure; the new federal radio commission isn't going to eliminate stories of baseball and football games from broadcasting programs.

Or, to do the deed, the majority will have to step over the prostrate corpse of Rear Admiral William H. G. Bullard, chairman of the commission.

Listening to baseball and football games is the thing in radio which Bullard is fond of.

"I like sports more than anything else," says Bullard, interviewed. "I'm not a lover of music, although I like to listen to the higher class of it."

I'm not a dancing man and so jazz has no appeal to me.

"I do like grand opera now and then and appreciate speeches of national importance, but I can listen all afternoon to a baseball or football game."

"It's much more comfortable sitting at home and hearing each play described to you than to sit out on a board in snow and rain and wind."

VETERAN IN RADIO
Admiral Bullard is a comfortable-looking man, but his career with the navy kills any idea that comfort might be his first consideration.

"My interest in radio," he recalls, "dates back to 1888 when Marconi brought over his first few curious spark sets. It wasn't long before the Navy Department became interested."

Bullard organized the department of electrical engineering at Annapolis and after a year or two, as naval commandant at San Francisco, became superintendent of the vital naval radio service from 1912 to 1916. He commanded the battleship Arkansas, 1916 to 1918, served importantly with the Atlantic fleet and the British grand fleet in the war, commanded the U. S. naval forces in the eastern Mediterranean and was a member of the interallied commission which effected the naval terms of the Austrian armistice and received the surrender of the Austrian fleet. He was a member of the interallied conference in Paris in 1919, director of our naval communications from March, 1919 to 1921, commanded the Yangtze patrol force in China in 1921-22 and retired in September, 1924.

Bullard got his first receiving set some five years ago, just after his return from China. Since then he has all kinds of sets and all of them have been given to him.

His present set is on the way from the Philippines, where he has used it for the last year. It is one of the most powerful types.

ENJOYMENT WITHOUT INTERUPTION

Two of three nights a week Mr. and Mrs. Bullard open it up. They aren't friends; but they both like their programs, and on Saturday afternoons, during the football season, you'll always find the admiral at home.

There are no youngsters to insist on having the set on all the time, as the only son, 37-year-old Lt. Commander B. S. Bullard, is with the construction corps of the navy and detailed to the Asiatic fleet. Mr. Bullard is especially fond of good musical material, but shares her husband's impatience with jazz.

What about the future?
"I would like to see broadcasting develop along more educational lines," says Admiral Bullard.

"The field of usefulness for broadcasting has hardly been found. Its big field is in educational and historical programs."

"The spoken word, in my opinion, is far more impressive than the written word."

MUSIC BOX REVUE COMING

We are told that Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue," the fourth addition of which comes to Fischer's Appleton Theatre Thursday, May 12, has class written all over it. It is a big, beautiful show and John Murray Anderson, who staged it, has dispensed with the ordinary scenery wherever possible, using costly and beautiful curtains instead. There is one drop that is completely covered with brilliant, making one of the loveliest and most dazzling effects ever seen when the spotlights are thrown on it.

Other important features include "The Levee," with the bandanna ball in full swing. In this scene the entire chorus members are mysteriously changed from white to black and back to white. Other settings include "In Tokio," "New York Harder," "Alice in Wonderland," "The Garden Club," "Broadway," "Little Old New York" and "The Circus."

The company numbers more than 100 entertainers.

A GREAT STAR IN A GREAT STORY

Lionel Barrymore, brother of John and Ethel, the eldest son of the great Maurice Barrymore, who has been seen recently in "I Am the Star" and "Meddling Women," will return to the local screen next week in another special production, which has made for Chadwick Pictures Corporation. "A Man of Iron," this latest Barrymore screen drama, will be the feature attraction at the New Bijou Theatre today and Tuesday.

"A man of iron" promises to be one of the finest of all this great star's photoplays. Based on a story written especially for him by Lawrence Marston, the picture was directed by Whitman Bennett, a prominent producer, who has been responsible for many of Mr. Barrymore's best pictures.

Although the story itself is tense and dramatic throughout, affording ample opportunity for the display of the varied Barrymore talent, there is promise of added interest in this production by virtue of the fact that the story is laid in the background of a great steel mill. In unfolding the drama, the camera has followed through the entire working of the great plant. This most hazardous and dramatic of all industries has never before been so well displayed in motion pictures.

CIVIC CLUBS ARE BEST SUPPORTERS OF PLAY MOVEMENTS

Ten Cities Maintain Paid Supervisors in Charge of Playgrounds

Madison—(AP)—Reports from forty Wisconsin cities to Aubrey Williams, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, indicate that groups of business men, Kiwanis, Rotary, and women's clubs, city governments, park boards, Red Cross, municipal leagues, boards of education, and church societies are the organizations looking after a portion of the child health program by the maintenance of supervised playgrounds.

Of the cities reporting, Janesville spent the most of the summer recreation for its children. The five Janesville playgrounds under thirteen paid play leaders, cost $3,000 during the three months of 1926.

In West Bend, business men started the movement which provides two supervised playgrounds during five summer weeks. They donate the $375 required each year to maintain the facilities.

The Red Cross started the playgrounds in Neenah, and, with the cooperation of villagers, the supervised beach at Williams Bay. Women's organizations began the supervised recreation program in Oconomowoc and Richland Center, a donation of land for the purpose gave Neillsville its playground.

Fifteen of the 40 cities which replied to the questionnaire have playgrounds, and in 10 of these cities, the plants are in charge of regular paid supervisors. Sparta, Williams Bay, and Waupesa maintain public beaches, each in care of a paid director. Municipal parks in Edgerton, Marinette, and Chippewa Falls are listed as playgrounds, but no play leaders are employed.

City council appropriations pay for the playgrounds in several of the cities, but special tax, subscriptions, and donations defray the expenses in others.

The attendance of children varies from a daily average of 35 on the two playgrounds in West Bend to 1,400 on the plays in Janesville.

The length of the playground season is by no means uniform. West Bend playgrounds are open for 5 weeks in the summer, while those in Manitowish are used all year.

Most of the cities open the grounds at 9 o'clock in the morning and close them at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, but the "play" is by no means standardized. Beloit playgrounds are used from 1:30 to 3 p. m., while those in Platteville, Richland Center, and Saxon may be used at any time.

RESIDENTS WANT STREET SHRUBBERY

Will Petition Council to Accept Improvement Program on State-st

Residents on State-st are preparing to petition the common council to adopt a shrubbery improvement program for the boulevard on that street, it is said.

The council adopted the shrubbery program at its last meeting but since that time Mayor A. C. Rule has filed a veto saying the city's financial condition will not permit an expenditure of this kind at this time. The council will consider the mayor's veto at the meeting next Wednesday. Eight votes will be necessary to adopt the resolution over the mayor's objection.

ORDINANCE BOARD TO HOLD ANOTHER ZONING HEARING

New Committee Seeks Information on Addition to Commercial District

Another hearing on the ordinance proposing to place two lots between the Chicago and Northwestern railroad light-of-way north of W. Second-st and west of S. Mason-st in a commercial and light manufacturing district will be held by the new ordinance committee of the common council at this week, according to Alderman Mark Catlin, chairman. Other members of the new committee are Alderman Phillip Vogt and Jerry Callahan.

The old ordinance committee had this same matter under consideration before the last meeting of the old council. According to unofficial reports, the old committee was deadlocked, and the matter died with it. Now the new committee is arranging another hearing to get information on which to base a recommendation to the council.

At the last hearing a group of property owners objected to the ordinance on the ground that a manufacturing district in their vicinity would decrease the value of their property. Owners of the land in question argued that their property was not fit for anything but manufacturing and that the logical place for manufacturing plants is along the railroad tracks.

TOURISTS ARRIVING AS WEATHER WARMS

Evidently the warm weather has started the blood throbbing through the veins of many people, as filling station attendants in Appleton report that during the last week an increasing number of out-of-state cars stopped for gasoline. One attendant said that he had seen cars from eight different states, Michigan, South Dakota, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Nebraska, Minnesota and New York. Filling station attendants state that since Highway 13 has been made a part of Federal Highway 41, which leads from northern Michigan to Florida, a greater number of tourists than ever are expected to pass through Appleton this year.

Lawrence W. Koepke of Koepke Brothers Construction Co. went to Milwaukee on business Saturday.

SUNDAY GAMES
APPLETON 12, KAUKAUNA 5
Green Bay 4, Kimberly 3
Neenah 4, Menasha 3 (14 innings)
Oshkosh (no game)

Practically the entire Kaukauna team of the Fox River Valley league "blew up" for one inning in the opening game with the Appleton nine at Kaukauna Sunday afternoon and before it had come down to earth the Baetzmen had scored nine runs and had the battle on ice. The final score was 12-5, but the hit was decided right there in the sixth frame when Kaukauna made five errors and Appleton added five hits to score the nine tallies better more than the full way around.

Before the fatal sixth the score was one all with every prospect of a fine game and after the sixth frame game was well along though Appleton handed the Kawmen two runs on errors. Appleton took the field handicapped as only eleven players including an extra runner in suits. Bent and Hillman regular outfielders of last year, were unable to play until the status of collegians in pro ball is determined.

Both men are Lawrence athletes and though baseball is not an inter-collegiate sport they must await a decision from Midwest conference headquarters.

Reffke, hurling his first game, was the star of the day. The Baetz hurler allowed Kaukauna to score three runs in the eighth with the game already won. He also scored twice, spanking out a triple and got on base three times. Son Tornow, Baetz and Radtke featured the slugging work of the locals, getting seven of the twelve Appleton hits, but safely three. The game opening with a homerun over the distant left field fence in his first trip to the platter and scored two runs. Baetz got two hits in two times at bat and one of Radtke's two hits was a homerun over the left field wall. Every Appleton man hit safely three. Cooper, new recruits got a hit, showing a decided improvement in hitting over last year. Last year batting was Appleton's weak point, but Sunday the men were hitting the ball at least, rather than fanning. Reffke fanned 12 enemy batters, a good record for an opener.

For Kaukauna, Gertz fanned nine in four innings after getting to the mound after Kraft had been knocked out in the sixth. Sager got two hits, one a double.

Appleton opened the scoring when Tornow poked his homer over the wall in the first half of the initial frame, but Kaukauna tied it up on two walks, two errors and a freak hit. E. Sager, the first man up, walked and Phillips fanned. Mereness forced Sager by hitting to third and moved to second when Cooper threw wild to Radtke in an attempt to cut him off from first. Schuler caught a ball at the heels of his bat and it "drifted" over first for a hit, just beyond Radtke's reach. Mereness scored. Schuler took second on a passed ball by Cooper and Gertz walked. Then Reffke fanned Stegeman.

Double plays stopped Appleton in the second and third. Reffke scored the sixth with a life on Phillips' error and Gosha, Tornow and Bowers also got on on errors by Gertz, Schuler and E. Sager. Priebe's walk, and hits by Baetz and Radtke and Last followed. Then Cooper fanned, Gertz walked and Cooper hit safely before Bowers ended the frame by fanning. Reffke scored twice in the frame, with Gosha, Tornow, Bowers, Priebe, Baetz, Radtke and Last denting the plate once each. Reffke pulled the best play of the frame, tearing from first to third when the third baseman took too much time to cover Gosha's bunt, leaving the sock without a guardian.

Kaukauna came back with two runs when Sager hit safely and Mereness got on by an error on Last after Phillips fanned. Schuler fanned and with two on and two out Gertz hit to Gosha. Sager scored as Gosha fumbled the ball around and Mereness cut for third. Gosha pegged the ball high over Last's head at third to head off Mereness and he scored. Stegeman flied to Priebe to end the frame.

In the seventh Appleton scored two more runs. Baetz walked with one out and Radtke hit a homerun. Kaukauna came back with two more. Sager doubled and scored on Phillips' long single. Phillips taking second on the error to the platter. Mereness singled to left field and Phillips scored when Bowers muffed up the ball. Mereness taking second. Three straight Kaw batters went out on easy plays and the rally was over.

Appleton got two hits in the ninth but fielder's choices cut off runs. Kaukauna and Appleton each scored five times but the Kawmen's misplay came all in one frame and were mingled with hits.

LAWRENCE COEDS TO HOLD TENNIS TOURNEY

The Lawrence college girls' class tennis tournaments began last week. A single tourney will be held in each class this spring, but no doubles tournaments. These eliminated in the first round will play off a consolation tournament in each class, the winner of which will play the loser in the finals. In this way the second best player of the class will be chosen. The class winners will play in an interclass tournament, beginning May 17. The second best players will play the second interclass tournament.

OLD UNITED STAR NINE ORGANIZES FOR SEASON

Joseph Bloch, Wenzel Bloch and Kenneth Wilson, former United Stars baseball players, have again organized a nine, which will be known as the United Stars. In 1917 the stars piled up a record of 21 wins in 23 games with the fastest teams of the Fox River valley. The new team practices Tuesday and Friday evenings and its members are confident of a similar good record this season. After a week of practice the team will be chosen.

The Stars will challenge any amateur team in the Valley after they are set to go. Any players desiring try-outs are requested to call Captain Ralph Barlett at 2214. Teams desiring games should call in with Manager K. Wilson, 315 T. McKinley, or Capt. Barlett.

RADICK CONTINUES TO WIN IN DISCUS THROW

Kenneth "Fat" Radick, former West Green Bay high school star who broke both the shot and discus records in the Valley conference last year, took first place in the discus in a dual meet between the Marquette freshmen and Milwaukee Normal school Saturday. Throwing for the fresh Radick made a mark of 112 feet 5 inches. His Valley discus mark still stands but he shot put record has been broken several times this year by Johnston of Appleton.

BAT STAR

"SON" TORNOW

Smacking out three hits, including a homerun, in five times at bat and scoring twice, Son Tornow, Appleton infielder, was the walloo star of the opening game of the season Sunday in which the Baetzmen trounced Kaukauna at Kaukauna, 12-5. Son started the fireworks early, clouting his homer on the first ball hurled to him in the first half of the first, and he was second batter, so that the drive probably was the first homer of the Valley loop this year. It cleared the distant left field fence easily. Son also stole the only base of the entire game and finished his hard position faultlessly.

LAWRENCE PLANS PREP TRACK MEET

Blue Sport Department Will Invite All State High Schools Here

For the first time, Lawrence college athletic department will, in the spring of 1928, conduct a state track and field meet and tennis tournament, to which all high schools of Wisconsin will be invited. It was announced at the office of the director of athletics Saturday.

It is planned to conduct the meets on Saturday, May 13, and to make the affair an annual one thereafter. Invitation to compete will be sent to every high school in the state. All events of the track and field meet will be conducted in the relay races, which will be run in class A and class B sections.

LOUIE BEHR'S BROTHER WILL ENTER WISCONSIN

Madison—When Louie Behr, the recently elected captain of the basketball team, graduates a year from this June, there will be a brother of his to take his place. Louie Behr, leader of the 1927-28 cake team, told several friends that his brother was coming to school here. Ordinarily such an announcement would mean little in view of the fact there are thousands of freshmen who enroll here annually. But to athletic followers and coaches this bit of news was received with pleasant anticipation.

Sammy Behr, the brother in question is the potential star who will essay to fill his brother's shoes. While Louie is essentially a brilliant one-sport man, Sammy is an all-around athlete, one that is equally proficient in three.

Though younger, Sammy is taller and outweighs his brother. The Rockford high school lad tips the scales at 175 and is 6 feet 2 inches in his stocking feet. Basketball, football, track and books are all his hobbies. He captained and played center on the Rockford quint which won the Illinois conference title, was high scorer for two years and earned all district sectional and conference honors. In football he is just as well known. He plays end and has won all state berths for two years.

RUTH SOCKS TWO HOMERS TO WHIP BATTILING MACKS

Bambino Comes into Own to Keep Yanks on Top; Cards Pull Up on Giants

Out of the smoke of a home run cannonading of both battle fronts of the league baseball Babe Ruth Monday was at the head of the circuit hitters while his Yankees were sitting on top of their league after a vain assault by the Athletics.

In a high powered game that meant league leadership, the Yankee thunderer swung his home run hammer twice and brought his total for the year to six as the Yankees downed the Macmen, 7 to 3. That brace of mighty drives carried him ahead of his record year of 1921 when he smacked out 59 for the season but only made five by the first of May.

Pressing him closely for the home run lead "Columbia Lou" Gehrig, a strong young cannoner on Ruth's own team, touched off his fifth round tripper in the same affair at the Yankee Stadium.

Big guns were blazing as furiously at St. Louis where the champion Cardinals put the reds to rout, 12 to 4. With one fence buster each Frisch and Bottomley of the Cards and Kelly and Ford of the Reds helped keep their league ahead of Ruth's circuit in home run totals.

By their resounding victory the Cardinals drew up to half a game behind the Giants as those leaders of the National League took a 4 to 3 leading from the rejuvenate Robins who seemed to have tired of the cellar. Before the hurling of Dazzy Vance the Giant homerun clubs were silent and the entire team could collect but five safe blows.

Home runs by Wilson and Olson failed to give the fast traveling Cubs a victory over the Pirates when Charley Root took the bait in the ninth. When he came down in the clubhouse, the count was 7 to 6, against the Cubs. Their companion club, the White Sox, kept on climbing by a 7-6 triumph over the Browns.

Of two pitchers who turned in shutouts one was starting his first major league game. In the box for Washington, Lizenbee, a youngster, held the Red Sox to seven hits and no score while Goose Goslin with a homer led his mates in hammering out six runs. The other hurler who blanketed the enemy was Earl Whitehill of Detroit. With the Indian sign on the Indians he hurled his team to a 7 to 0 victory.

NICE HURLING

ORVILLE REFFKE

Allowing only six bingles and sending 12 enemy batters to the bench via the strike route, Orville Reffke, youthful hurler of the Appleton Fox River Valley League team, opened his 1927 season with a 12-5 triumph over Kaukauna Sunday. Of the six hits only one was an extra baser, a double, and only two runs were earned by the Kawmen. In addition, Reffke, who got about three hits all last year, got a triple and two runs in three bats, getting on base three times, once on a fielders choice and another time on a rousing smack which the Kaw shortstop muffed up.

CARROLL TRACKMEN BEAT LAKE FOREST

Lake Forest, Ill.—By the margin of two-thirds of a point Carroll college of Waukegan defeated Lake Forest in a dual track meet here Saturday afternoon. The point lead saw saved back and forth during the meet, and the deciding event, the relay, put Carroll on the long end of the 65 5-6 to 65 1-6 score.

One dual meet record was broken, Powers of Lake Forest hurling the javelin 155 feet 11 inches, to break the old record of 147 feet.

Cobel of Lake Forest was high point man, taking firsts in the low hurdles and broad jump, third in the high hurdles and tying for third in the high jump. Mautner, Carroll was the only other dual winner, winning the mile in 4:48 4-5 and the half mile in 2:09 2-3.

Appleton Trackmen Win Four-Cornered Contests From Bays And Marinette

Orange Squeeze Out Close Win Over West's Champs With Seven Firsts

Taking six firsts and another tie for first in the track and field events and winning the relay by 20 yards, Coach Joseph Shields' Appleton high school track team squeezed out a victory in the quadrangular track and field meet held Saturday at Green Bay with West Green Bay, 1926 conference champ, East Green Bay and Marinette as foes. The meet was undecided until the final event, the relay, which gave the Orange a 48 to 30 win over West. East scored 4 points and Marinette 10. In winning the meet Appleton broke four of seven conference marks. East added two more and West another, when pushed in the events by Appleton stars.

Johnson's work again featured the meet, the husky Orange all-around star breaking a new three records in every event he entered. He dropped the shot 43 feet 4 inches, broad jump, 21 feet 13 inches and ran the 100 in 10.6. In the latter event his work was more remarkable in that he really ran the 101 in 10.6. He jumped the gun on the first try and was shoved back a yard and then he beat Crabbe of West, conference champ, by about two yards.

Johnson led the point-winners with 15 followed by Kruse of Appleton who scored nine with a first in the discus and a tie for first in the high jump. Crabbe of West had 8 points and Herbert, a teammate, 6, while Kresky scored 7 of Marinette's 10. Other conference records smashed were in the 440 where Collard of East ran the distance in 56 seconds, in the half where Konowalski, East, hit 2:11.4 and in the 220 where Crabbe of West made 24 seconds.

Konowalski was hard pushed by Roemer, beating him by making a faster final turn, and Letz pushed Crabbe hard in the 220. The track consisted of a 410 yard half-mile, with two long curves and an uphill finish. For the half mile the runners were forced to go to the finish of the 440 and return to the start after running around a man stationed at the halfway mark and in the mile the same was repeated three times. The hurdles also were set for a straight track and the runners who held an outside lane were forced to go farther than their foes. The tape also was held across a curve.

Appleton took an early lead but early in the afternoon it was apparent that the final events would decide the meet. This was especially certain after the low hurdles, where an East high man was disqualified for use of the wrong lane after taking second to give West an extra point. With two events the broad jump and relay left,

West led by a single point for the first time in the meet. Johnston copped first in the broad and West failed to place. With the score 43 to 39, the Orange had to win the relay to win East on it, as the event only counted five points for first. An East win would have given Appleton the 4-point win while a West win would mean a loss by a single point. An Appleton win meant a win by nine points.

Both Appleton and West were handicapped. West had Quint out and he was a certain place winner in the broad and possibly high jump. Appleton had Carl Kunitz out, a sure winner in the javelin as well as Hartung, a 220 star. With the latter in, Lutz could have ran the hurdles Appleton's week spot now, where the Orange failed to score a point.

Appleton won on firsts, taking six and a tie, three seconds and two thirds. West had four firsts, four seconds and five thirds.

PREPARE BLUE SPORT FIELD FOR NEXT YEAR

Two graded fields will be ready for athletics at Lawrence college in the fall. Preparations are now being made to increase the room for football practice. An area east of the regular gridiron is being regraded and reseeded, and by the time regular football practice is called in September, three good fields, including the old one, will be ready for use. One of the new fields may also be used for football.

The old field is being repaired, as it was badly cut up by practice last fall. Natural settling also had considerable to do with its condition, necessitating the regrading process. A sturdy combination of clover, redtop and timothy, with other mixed seeds, is being sowed on the three regraded surfaces. A new horse drawn lawnmower, which cuts seven feet of grass space at a time, has also been purchased by the college.

The red clay bank to the left of the drive leading to the field from the railroad tracks will be sowed with strong shrubs and brush, on both sides of the athletic field fence. This will beautify the bare hillside and will also prevent the clay from being quickly washed away. Grading will also be necessary there.

NEENAH, GREEN BAY WIN VALLEY BATTLES

Neenah—A knockout record was established here Saturday afternoon when Fred Nixon of the Neenah team of the Fox River valley league fanned 22 men in a 14 inning game against Menasha. Neenah winning 4 to 3. At the end of the ninth the score was tied 3 to 3 and the team battled along evenly until the fourteenth, when Powell, Menasha pitcher, weakened.

Green Bay—An opening day crowd of 1,000 fans saw Green Bay win a Valley league ball game from Kimberly by the score of 4 to 3. The Papermakers chased Flavian to the showers early in the third frame, but Lacosse, who replaced him, didn't allow the visitors a sign of a hit.

WASHINGTON, BOSTON IN SHORTSTOP TRADE

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Charles "Buddy" Myers, shortstop of the Washington American-League baseball club, was traded to the Boston Americans Monday for shortstop Emory Riney.

HERE'S SOMETHING NEW FOR GOLF BUGS

Here's some action from the annual weird-obstacle tournament recently staged by members of the Hartdale, N. Y., Golf club. The golfers, who spend most of their time in Wall street when not at home or on the links, made all right-handed golfers play left. One hole had to be made in pool-room fashion, and drives had to be made through barrels and out of pans of water. The top photograph shows the 18th hole being made in billiard fashion. The players are, left to right, A. N. Morris, Charles Nicholson, Arthur Myles and Bill Nye. The bottom picture shows Bill Nye teeing off from the pan of water on the first tee.

THE COMPLAINT BOX

(The Post-Crescent invites its readers to register their complaints against abuses or unsatisfactory conditions with The Complaint Box department of this newspaper. These complaints will be placed before proper authorities with the request that investigations be made and that proper remedial steps be taken. All communications must be signed with the name and address, not for publication, but as an evidence of good faith. Be sure your communications are so written that the nature of your complaint is readily understood.)

Editor, Post-Crescent—Why have a city ordinance to have all dogs tied up and then not put it into effect? This is to certify that I have lost 10 chickens within the last few nights, which were killed by a stray dog. I see no reason why the owner of this dog should not repay me off the damage done, and why this animal should be at random to kill more chickens. I am one of three parties in my neighborhood who have had chickens killed.

N. G.
There is no city ordinance providing that dogs be kept on a leash. The city ordinance provides, however, that all dogs must be muzzled between the period from June 1 to Sept. 1.

If any property owner can prove that a certain dog has been biting people or animals the police will force the owner to keep the dog muzzled. It isn't enough just to say that a dog has been doing these things. The person making the complaint also must state that such a dog did the damage so that the police will know where to find the animal. The city ordinance also provides that citizens whose property is damaged may place a claim with the city clerk and these damages are presented to the county and paid from the dog taxes collected each year. Anyone having such claim for damages should file a bill with E. L. Williams, city clerk.

Need Proper Equipment To Catch Elusive Trout

BY B. A. CLAFIN

It matters not whether you fish one of the many trout streams which are feeders to the Menominee, Peshigo, Oconto or Wolf rivers, you must have the proper equipment in order to meet with success. This is a big country neckworked by trout streams innumerable. There are thousands of sportsmen who fish this region but there is plenty of room for all. And there are plenty of trout if you are properly equipped for them and know their wiles and moods.

Let us assume that you hit the South Branch of the Oconto. The stream has long been known for its fine Rainbow. There are many points at which you can fish it with success. To be more explicit, let us speak of the stretch of water which is reached near Breed, Oconto county. In this section you will find some fast water, but, as a rule, while there is a fairly fast flow, you will find little white water. For that reason the deep holes harbor some fine specimens of Salmo trutta, and the stream is especially fine for fly fishing, particularly so for dry flies.

However, it is imperative that you have the right tackle if you are to get the big ones. They are there all right but you won't ever get acquainted with them if you go splashing down stream slashing your flies right and left simply to cover the greatest stretch of water. Let us consider your equipment. The weight of your rod is not so important providing you use a line to fit. I consider a tapered line preferable to a level one but that is a moot question, so we will leave it to the individual. As for leaders, you should use one of at least six feet, and nine is better. The matter of leaders is very important. By all means use the tapered.

In dry fly fishing always fish upstream. Drop your flies lightly and avoid disturbance of the water as much as possible. Try each hole several times floating your fly from different angles at each cast. Practice for delicacy, and when you have acquired that you will take more fish and bigger ones than is ever possible in "plunking" with worms. Also try night fishing with the dark patterns and watch results.

Let us consider your equipment.

and he keeps right on winning ball games

"Ty" Cobb, forty-one years old, is still good enough to show most rookies and regulars too a few tricks in the field and at the plate. Most critics regarded him as "all through" and when Connie Mack hired him at a reported salary of $45,000, people thought Mack was crazy. Modern baseball scribes now speak of a ball player of thirty-five as "ancient," but "Ty," long past the age, continues with an ability that is nothing less than uncanny. Why just the other day, he saved the game with a "shoe-string catch" that would make any rookie jealous, and last Friday "The Georgia Peach" got a triple, double, and single to help Philadelphia nose out Washington, 8 to 7.

Sport writers in any number, advance various reasons for this continued ability—but Ty Cobb himself sums it all up nice and briefly when he says, "That it is due to clean living."

Now then if you are going to have your car deliver its maximum of efficiency, day after day, month after month, and year after year — and do it well—it's up to you to see that your car has a "Clean Living."

Your assurance of a "Clean Living" standard for your car is De Bauffer's Perfect Power Products. Feed it De Bauffer's Tested Gasoline, and De Bauffer's Guaranteed 100% Pure Pennsylvania Oil, and have your chassis greased regularly at De Bauffer's modern greasing racks—and then you can rest assured that your car is getting the best.

SECOND COMMITTEE WILL STUDY SITES FOR SCOUTS' CAMP

Location Must Be Near City and Accessible All the Year Around

After hearing a report of a committee which had been appointed to select a site for a permanent weekend camp for Valley Council of Boy Scouts, the council executive board appointed another committee to make a further investigation of sites mentioned in the report, at a special meeting Friday evening at Scout headquarters.

The original camp committee, headed by E. H. Scultz, Menasha, reported that a careful investigation had been made for a site along the north shore of Lake Winnebago.

The committee walked from a point about a mile east of Waverly beach and covered several miles. A distance limit was set because of the need of a location near enough to be reached on foot and accessible all year around in spite of winter snows. The site also must be accessible to parents, and younger brothers and sisters.

The committee had two or three sites definitely in mind but it desired further study by other members of the executive board. Because of this the new committee was appointed to make another study. It consists of William Falatich, Stephen Rosebush and Walter Zwicker, Appleton; Mr. Scultz; Charles Sommers of Neenah; and William Gantner of Kaukauna. These men were to go to the lake Saturday afternoon to secure a definite site.

P. O. Keicher, Valley executive, in speaking of the need for a campsite, told of a Pennsylvania campsite gift.

A group of wealthy citizens of Newark, N. J., have presented the Boy Scouts of that city with a site for a camp, comprising 1,725 acres, at Wild Cat Lake, Warren County, N. J.

Keicher said. The camp will be developed by sections, some of which will be prepared for camping and other portions left practically in a wild state with such trails complete as may be necessary. It is expected the camp will accommodate 300 boys. Several of the camp cabins and service buildings have been given by civic and fraternal organizations of Newark.

The council-owned camp site stimulates an interest and a community pride among men which has won a great many enthusiastic supporters to the Scout movement. Men who are interested in conservation and ready support the building of a camp where education in out-of-door-life and conservation is made possible.

A permanent camp site gives a council a certain stability which strengthens the city work. A council camp will also carry over the work of Scouting, in the event that the professional worker should leave and the field be unoccupied for a period of time.

An active Camp Committee in a case of this kind can provide opportunities for the scouts of a community to keep the outing in Scouting.

With the ever increasing popularity in outdoor recreation, camp sites will soon be at a premium. Moreover they are a splendid investment as choice camp sites are increasing in value constantly.

Members of the executive board at the meeting were E. H. Scultz, Walter Zwicker, Stephen Rosebush, William Falatich, H. L. Gear, Dr. G. W. Carlson and P. O. Keicher, Valley executive.

Claims Nothing Can Stop Forward March Of China

Nothing can permanently interrupt China's march into the family of nations, the Reverend Stephen C. Peabody, a three year resident in Peking as a member of the American Foreign Missions, has written his father the Rev. H. P. Peabody Pastor of the First Congregational church, here.

"Through all its troubles, China is on the move," the missionary wrote. "Their education continues, people are slowly coming to take more and more of an intelligent and responsible interest in their country's problems."

"I am distinctly optimistic, the intellectual leaders in both the north and south are behind China and there is hope. There may be hard days ahead, mobs may get out of hand, missionaries and other foreigners may have to be withdrawn for a time, but nothing will be able to stop the best in China."

"The outstanding fact which I like to keep at the back of all my thinking about China is that she is in the midst of a process of nation building."

"Some of the objects to the Christianity I and others over here represent have been made clear to us and we recognize their side of the question. They oppose it as a foreign institution; it is personnel, buildings, money, methods, and ideals. I feel that there is great deal of validity in this criticism—we ought to change our ways. We have too often in the past built on our high Western standard of living on organization so complex and expensive that our Chinese friends could not think of taking over."

"I am asked to give my benevolence to pay the great church's coal bill—whereas I would much prefer to put my money into giving a scholarship to some lad who might be a future leader. A survey was conducted a few years ago in Shansi—one of the richer agricultural parts of China. It was found that the average income per family per year was $36.00 American money. That indicates that people have no surplus to speak of—the item upon which all education, churches, hospitals depend. Any untoward event drives such people into starvation or into being recipients of charity. I believe that here is a basic economic fact—to keep in mind in our planning for the church and the transfer of our whole program to an economic basis in agreement with Chinese conditions is under way."

"It is rather thrilling to me that strong criticism of the Church and its administration, is accompanied on the part of many of the leaders with the highest appreciation and even veneration of Jesus. Here again when I think in terms of scores of years I am distinctly optimistic. There are hosts of problems: how more effectively to harness in the young, college people into the church—a more vital worship and devotional life, leadership, how to get the Church to take a more effective place in the social problems all about us. But where is the church that does not have these to contend with? China is coming."

"The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. have sponsored the campaign to collect money to send a Lawrence student to a European school for one year. This is a part of the world fellowship work of the two associations. The committee was elected from a group of ten representative students nominated at a preliminary meeting Thursday evening. Election will be based on similar requisites demanded for Rhodes scholarships. The committee also will have charge of the selection of the place of study, use of the money, and other matters pertaining to the project."

FREQUENCY CHANGE WOULD END SQUEAL

Washington—When E. A. Deane, radio supervisor for the Ninth District, with headquarters at Chicago, broached his plan of shifting the normal broadcasting frequencies from the designations that now end with 0, to those ending with the number 5, and still retain the 10 kilocycles frequency band, he heard a tremendous echo of doubt from all parts of the country.

What's the difference, asked the doubters, so long as the separation of stations remains at 10 kilocycles? How can the mere act of moving up all frequencies five kilocycles, but still keeping them at 10 kilocycles apart, avoid interference among stations?

Here's how, explains Deane, whose plan has been approved by such authoritative radio engineers as: Dr. John H. Dellinger of the Bureau of Standards radio laboratory and Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith of the Radio Corporation of America:

Station KXW, Chicago, for instance, operates 560 kilocycles, or 561.4 meters. If its frequency were moved up to 565 kilocycles, the second harmonic of this frequency would be repeated at 1230 kilocycles.

Under Deane's plan no station would operate on 1230 kilocycles, or on any other frequency ending in 0. The harmonic therefore would be five kilocycles away from the frequency nearest broadcasting channel, and would cause no interference at the lower wavelength, as that harmonic does today.

At present the second harmonic interferes with the frequency of a broadcaster on a lower wave band. It is an established fact that the second harmonics of frequency in 0, while harmonics of the higher ending in 5 end in 0. By shifting the broadcast frequencies up five kilocycles, there will be no more interference from the second harmonics of higher wave stations. Stations on the low waves will be greatly diminished.

POSITIVE AGITATION

Knowing what a super-value the Hoover is, with its revolutionary new principle, "Positive Agitation," you will be agreeably surprised to learn at what a low price we are now offering a new Hoover model including this famous feature.

Next to the Greater Hoover, this is the most outstandingly efficient cleaning device obtainable today. It completely outstrips other cleaning methods, because it does what others cannot do—reaches and removes the most deeply buried, rug-destroying grit.

"Positive Agitation" which taps this "unreachable" dirt to the surface, is obtainable only in the Hoover cleaners.

Come in and let us show you just how remarkably efficient this popular-priced Hoover is. We will explain, also, the very easy terms which permit you to own it at once and pay for it in small amounts. Or better still, we will bring one to your home, and show you its advantages on your own rugs. Just phone us.
